$6,000 FIRE AT BUTTS' MILL

Tuesday Fire Destroyed the Mills and Thousands of Feet of Lumber

Word was brot to Bowden that the mills and thousands of feet of newly sawed lumber belonging to the Butts Bros. was burned to the ground. It seems that the engine and some of the machinery had been removed so that much escaped. Just how the fire started is not known. No insurance.

Boys! Be Men!

The editor enjoyed Rev West's sermon Sunday evening. He appealed to the young men of Bowden to cut out their "folies of youth", and this appeal seemed to sink into the hearts of the young men present. He also referred to certain parties Bowden who dwelt (our own version) in "spiral hardware." We have not heard of anything of this nature and no doubt its some more "old women's mind slinging" with some help of men who think they are paid to mind other people's business rather than their own.

Whoever this fits put it on.

While we are speaking of church matters—let us say to those who have asked and written us "why we do not run Methodist church notices any more" is this. The notices failed to arrived and our reporter called on Rev West to find out "why." The reporter was informed that "the Bowden News was not run to suit West [ye gods] and besides there might be some charge for printing the notice." As everyone knows who has read the News there never has been a cent charged for church service notices. Yes, as long as we have charge of the News we will run it to suit ourselves, you can count on that. We have to pay for light.

An Eye to Business

H. G. Wells, the novelist, tells a story of a gentleman next to whom he once sat at a public dinner. The conversation has turned upon one of his own books and Mr. Wells had said something to the effect that "were there no self-seekers the world would be a very Utopia." This neighbor promptly observed, "I maintain that all water used for drinking and culinary purposes should be boiled at least an hour." "You are a physician, I presume?" suggested the novelist. "No, sir," was the unexpected reply. "I am in the coal line."

Internally and Externally It Is Good.—The crowning property of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is that it can be used internally for many complaints as well as externally. For sore throat, croup, whooping cough, pains in the chest, colic and many kindred ailments it has curative qualities that are unsurpassed. A bottle of it costs little and there is no loss in always having it at hand.

In Porto Rico the government telegraph service extends to every town, either directly or by telephone, and in addition many of the large barrios and important sugar mills are connected with the main line. The government receives messages over the telephone and transmits them by telegraph at low rates. So profitable an investment has the whole system been from the start that recently Uncle Sam reduced the price of telegrams.

USING PURGATIVES INJURES HEALTH

What You Need in Spring is a Blood Building Tonic

A spring medicine is an actual necessity to most people. Nature demands it as an aid in carrying off the impurities that have accumulated in the blood during the indoor life of winter. But unfortunately thousands of people who do recognize the necessity of a spring medicine do not know what is best to take and dose themselves with harsh, griping purgatives.

This is a serious mistake. Ask any doctor and he will tell you that the use of purgative medicine weakens the system but does not cure disease. In the spring the system needs building up—purgatives cannot do this—they weaken you still more. The blood should be made rich, red and pure, and only a tonic medicine can do this. The best blood building, nerve restoring tonic medical science has yet discovered is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Every dose of this medicine actually makes new, rich blood. This new blood strengthens every organ, every nerve and every part of the body. This is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure headaches and backaches, rheumatism and neuralgia, banish pimples and eruptions, and give a glow of health to the most sallow skin. Men, women and growing boys and girls who take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills eat well, sleep well, and feel bright, active and strong. If you need a medicine this spring—and most likely you do—try this great reviving tonic, and see the new life, new health and new strength it will put into you.

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Little Lillian's father was very homesy, and one day she said, "Mamma, why did you marry papa?" "Because I loved him, dear," was the reply. "Mamma," continued Lillian, "love will make us women do anything, won't it?"

CURED HIS BLADDER TROUBLE

Mr. Herbert Bauer, of Danisville, says he owes Gin Pills a debt of gratitude which he can never repay. He suffered for years from Bladder Trouble and could not pass urine except by much straining, which caused great pain.

Mr. Bauer sent for a free sample of Gin Pills. The first dose did him so much good that he ordered six boxes and began to take them regularly. A month's treatment completely cured him.

You can try Gin Pills before you buy them. Write National Drug & Chemical Co. (Dept. N. U.), Toronto, for free sample. At all dealers, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50.

Lady Gushington (to great tenor)—"You sang that song beautifully. I was in the supper-room, but I heard every word. You have improved; you have really."

The Great Tenor—"But—I have not yet sung; I am next!"

The Retort Critical

Professor Marry Thurston Peck, the brilliant critic, said at a dinner in New York:

"The painter vows that none but the painter is competent to criticize his pictures; and a playwright said to me the other day:

"You never wrote a play. What right have you, then, to pass judgment on the drama?"

"Well, my dear fellow," said I, "I never laid an egg, either; but the minute I taste one I know whether it's good or bad."

The other day a certain village doctor was handed the rather startling note, "Dear Doctor, will you kindly give Robert enough chloroform to kill a dog, and oblige his mother, Martha Jamison."

"Perfectly trustworthy" is the character of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It can be used with the utmost confidence that it will do what is claimed for it. It is sure in its effects, as the use of it will clearly demonstrate and can be relied upon to drive a cold out of the system more effectively than any other medicine. Try it and be convinced that it is what it is claimed to be.

Husband—"Another new dress! Where do you suppose I shall get the money to pay for it?"

Wife—"You must excuse me. I didn't marry you to give you financial advice."

12 Tumors Removed Without An Operation

Silver Lake, Ont., Sept. 20, 1908.
Dear Mrs. Currah—I am enjoying better health than I have for eight years, and I think I am entirely cured. I have none of the old symptoms. I am very grateful for my present health, and think Orange Lily is the greatest treatment for women the world knows. Its use in my case caused 12 tumors or growths of some sort to be expelled. Some were as large as a hen's egg, and others smaller, down to the size of a walnut. You may use my case in your advertisement, for it is the solid truth, and I cannot describe all the good it has done for me. Mrs. Louise E. Bolteridge.

This letter gives an indication of the positive benefits that always follow the use of Orange Lily. It is an applied treatment and comes in direct contact with the suffering organs. It produces results from the start in all cases of women's disorders, including painful periods, falling of womb, irregularities, leucorrhoea, etc.

I will send a sample box containing 10 days' treatment absolutely free to any suffering woman who has not yet tried it if she will send me her address. Enclose 3 stamps and address MRS. FRANCES E. CURRAH, Windsor, Ont.

Toilet and Medicinal Preparations
Are Compounded by Expert Chemists

Who Compounds Your Medicines?

When your physician gives you a prescription you would scarcely risk having it compounded by a grocer or a baker, even if you were sure they had the right drugs. You insist on your druggist's skillful dispensing.

If you did not protect yourself in this way the laws of the country would protect you, for they demand that physicians' prescriptions be dispensed by physicians or qualified druggists only.

Is it not equally important to know that the household remedies, such as laxatives, cough syrups and tonics, and the toilet preparations such as tooth paste, which you use so frequently, are also compounded by expert chemists?

When you use NA-DRU-CO medicinal or toilet preparations you have the positive guarantee of one of the largest wholesale drug firms in the world, the National Drug and Chemical Company of Canada, Limited, that each one has been compounded by expert chemists only.

This is just where NA-DRU-CO Cascara Laxatives, NA-DRU-CO Liqueur, Linseed, and Chlorodyne Cough Syrup, NA-DRU-CO Tasteless Cod Liver Oil Compound and everything else on the NA-DRU-CO list are pre-eminently better than mixtures at present flooding the market. They are compounded by men who know.

The Man From Brodney's

By GEORGE BARR
M'GUTCHEON

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead & Co.

Judge Garrett had a copy of the will in his hand. He looked dubious, even dismayed.

"It's as sound as the rock of Gibraltar," he announced dolefully.

"You don't mean it!" gasped poor Bobby, mopping his fine Harvard brow, his six feet of manhood shrinking perceptibly as he looked about for a chair in which to collapse. "Can't it be smashed?"

"It might be an easy matter to prove either of these old gentlemen to have been insane, but the two of them together make it out of the question."

"Darned unreasonable!"

"What do you mean, sir?" indignantly.

"I mean—oh, you know what I mean—the conditions and all that. Why, the old chumps must have been trying to prove their grandchildren insane when they made that will. Nobody but imbeciles would marry people they'd never seen. I!"

"But the will provides for a six months' courtship. Mr. Browne, I'm sorry to say. You might learn to love a person in less time and still retain your mental balance, you know, especially if she were pretty and an heiress to half your own fortune. I dare say that is what they were thinking about."

"Thinking? They weren't thinking of anything at all. They weren't capable. Why didn't they consider the possibility that things might turn out just as they have?"

"Possibly they did consider it, my boy. It looks to me as if they did not care a rap whether it went to their blood relatives or to the islanders. I fancy of the two they loved the islanders more. At any rate, they left a beautiful opening for the very complications which now conspire to give the natives their own, after all. It's necessary for both of you to be on the ground according to schedule. You must go to the island, wife or no wife, and there's not much time to be lost. Lady Deppingham won't let the grass grow under her feet if I know anything about the needs of English nobility, and I'll bet my hat she's packing her trunks now for a long stay in Japan. You have farther to go than she, but you must get over there inside of sixty days. You can't tell what may happen in the next six months."

"What do you mean?"

"Well, it's possible that you may become a widower and she a widow."

"Good heaven, Judge Garrett! Impossible!" gasped Bobby Browne, clutching the arms of his chair.

"Nothing is impossible, my boy."

"Well, if that's what you're counting on you can count me out. I won't speculate on my wife's death."

"But, man, suppose that it did happen?" roared the Judge frantically. "You should be prepared for the best—I mean the worst. Don't look like a sick dog. You go to the island at once. Take your wife along if you like. You'll find her ladyship there, and she'll need a woman to tell her troubles to. I don't think we'll have any trouble getting the British heirs to join in the suit to overthrow the will. The only point is this—the islanders must not have the advantage that your absence from Japan will give to them. Now, I'll!"

"But I don't like the suggestion that my wife will be obliged to die in order!"

"Please leave all the details to me, Mr. Browne. It may not be necessary for her to die. There are other alternatives in law. Give the lawyers a chance. All you have to do is to plant yourself on that island and stay there until we tell you to get off."

"Or the islanders push me off," lugubriously.

Young Mr. Browne went away at dusk, half reeling under the responsibility of existence, and eventually reached the side of the anxious young woman uptown. He bared the facts and awaited the wall of dismay.

"I think it will be perfectly jolly!" she cried instead and kissed him rapturously.

Over the opposite side of the Atlantic the excitement in certain circles was even more intense than that produced in Boston. Lord Deppingham needed the money, but he was a whole day in grasping the fact that his wife could not have it and him at the same time. The beautiful and fashionable

Lady Deppingham, once little Agnes Ruthven, came as near to having hysteria as Englishwomen ever do, but she called in a lawyer instead of a doctor. For three days she neglected her social duties (and they were many), ignored her gallant admirers (and they were many) and hurried back and forth between home and chambers so rigorously that his lordship was seldom closer than a day behind in anything she did.

There was a great rattling of trunks, a jangling of keys, a thousand good-bys, a castoff season, and the Deppinghams were racing away for the island of Japat, somewhere in the far south seas.

CHAPTER III.

INTRODUCING HOLLINGSWORTH CHASE.

THE excitement attending the Skaggs-Wyckholme revelations had not yet spread to the grand duchy of Rapp-Thorberg, apparently lost as it was in the cluster of small units which went to make up a certain empire, one of the world powers. The Grand Duke Michael disdained the world at large. He had but little in common with anything that moved beyond the confines of his narrow domain. His court was sleepy, lackadaisical, unemotional, impregnable to the taunts of progression. His people were thrifty, stolid and absolutely stationary in their loyalty to the ancient traditions of the duchy. His army was a mere matter of taxation and not a thing of pomp or necessity.

The precise location of the grand duchy in the map of the world has little or nothing to do with this narrative. Indeed, were it not for the fact that the grand duke possessed a charming and most desirable daughter the Thorberg dynasty would not be mentioned at all. The grand duke's peace of mind had been severely disturbed—so severely, in fact, that he was transferring his troubles to the emperor, who, in turn, felt obliged to communicate with the United States ambassador, who, in his turn, had no other alternative than to take summary action in respect to the transgressions of a fellow countryman. Chase's conscience was even and serene, and he was resigning his post with the confidence that he had performed his obligations as an American gentleman should, even though the performance had created an extraordinary commotion. Chase was new to the old world and its customs, especially those rigorous ones which surrounded royalty and denied it the right to venture into the commonplace.

Chase had been the representative of the American government at Thorberg for six months. The American flag floated above his doorway in the Friedrichstrasse, but in all his six months of occupation not ten Americans had crossed the threshold. He was a vigorous, healthy young man, and it may well be presumed that the situation bored him. He was not a politician; no more was he an office seeker. He was a real soldier of fortune in search of affairs—in peace or in war, on land or at sea. Possessed of a small income sufficiently adequate to sustain life if he managed to advance it to the purple age, but wholly incapable of supporting him as a thrifless diplomat, he was compelled to make the best of his talents, no matter to what test they were put. He left college at twenty-two, possessed of the prize-worthy design to earn his own way without recourse to the $4,500 income from a certain trust fund. His plan also incorporated the hope to save every penny of that income for the possible "rainy day." He was now thirty. In each of several New York banks he had something like $1,000 drawing 3 per cent interest, while he picked his blithe way through the world on $2,500 a year, more or less, as chance ordained.

"When I'm forty," Chase was wont to remark to envious spendthrifts who couldn't understand his philosophy, "I'll have over a hundred thousand there, and if I live to be ninety just think what I'll have. Moreover, I may get married and have to maintain a poor wife with rich relatives, which is a terrible strain, you know. You have to live up to your wife's relatives, if you don't do anything else."

He did not refer to the chance that he was quite sure to come in for a large legacy at the death of his maternal grandfather, a millionaire ranch owner in the far west.

After leaving college he drifted pretty much over the world, taking pot luck with fortune and clasping the hand of circumstance. There had been hard roads to travel as well as easy ones, but he never complained. He swung on through life with the heart of a soldier and the confidence of a pugan. He loathed business, and he abhorred trade.

He was an orphan and bounden to no man. No one had the right to question his actions after his twenty-first anniversary. He went in for law at Yale and then practiced restlessly, vaguely, for two years in Baltimore under the patronage of his father's oldest friend, a lawyer of distinction.

Tiring of the law books and reports in the old judge's office, he suddenly abandoned his calling and set forth to see the world. Almost before his friends knew that he had left he was heard of in Turkestan. In course of time he served as a war correspondent for one of the great newspapers, acted as agent for great hemp dealers in the Philippines, carried a rifle with the Boers in South Africa, hunted wild beasts in Asia and in Hottentot land, took snapshots in St. Petersburg and almost got to the north pole with one of the expeditions. Not in a month's journey would you meet a truer thoroughbred, a more agreeable chap, a more polished vagabond, than Hollingsworth Chase, first lieutenant in Dame Fortune's army. Tall, good looking, rawboned, cheerful, gallant, he was the true comrade of those merry, reckless volunteers from all lands who find commissions in Fortune's army and serve her faithfully.

He was nearly thirty when the diplomatic service began to appeal to him as a pleasing variation from the rigorous occupations he had followed heretofore. One of his uncles was a congressman, and another was in some way connected with railroads. He first sought the influence of the latter and then the recommendation of the former. In less than six weeks after his arrival in Washington he was off for the city of Thorberg. In the grand duchy of Rapp-Thorberg, carrying with him an appointment as consul and supplied with the proper stamps and seal of office.

At the end of five months he loathed Thorberg; he hated the inhabitants; he smarted under the sting of royal disdain; he had no real friends, no boon companions, and he was obliged to be good! What wonder, then, that the bored, suffering, vivacious Mr. Chase seized the first opportunity to leap headforemost into the very thick of a most appalling indiscretion!

When he first arrived in Thorberg to assume his sluggish duties he was not aware of the fact that the grand duke had an unmarried daughter, the Princess Genevra.

She was visiting in St. Petersburg or Berlin or some other place when he reached his post of duty, and it was toward the end of his fifth month before she returned to her father's palace in Thorberg. He awoke to the importance of the occasion and took some slight interest in the return of the royal young lady, even going so far as to follow the crowd to the railway station on the sunny June afternoon.

He saw the princess for the first time that afternoon, and he was bowled over, to use the expression of his English friends with whom he dined that night. She was the first woman that he had ever looked upon that he could describe, for she was the only one who had impressed him to that extent. This is how he pictured her at the American legation in Paris a few weeks later.

PEERESSES AND THEIR HEIRS. Titles in Their Own Right.

While so many women are agitating for their "rights" it is of interest to know that a great many of the gentler sex hold exalted positions in their own right in England, and do not derive their titles from their husbands. At present there are a number of peeresses in their own right—sixteen to be exact, the one whose peerage is of the greatest antiquity being Lady de Ros whose barony—the premier barony of England—was created by Simon de Montfort when, after the battle of Lewes he summoned Robert de Ros by writ in the King's name, to Parliament.

Lady de Ros was the only child of the late Lord de Ros, who died rather more than two years ago. Her husband is a brother of Lord Dartrey, and she has three daughters—the Hon. Mrs. Ross, the Hon. Maude Dawson and the Hon. Mrs. Wade Palmer. Having no brother, these ladies are co-heiresses to their mother's barony, for it is a peculiarity of English baronies by writ that primogeniture among females is ignored. All daughters are equal co-heiresses, and not one of them can obtain the title until she becomes the sole heiress.

But this is not all. Mrs. Ross has two sons, and Mrs. Wade Palmer has two daughters and the barony may remain in abeyance until the descendants of the original co-heiresses have dwindled down to one person. Because of this peerages have sometimes remained in abeyance for centuries. However, the King has a prerogative. He can at any time he chooses confer the dignity on any one of the co-heirs.

Two peeresses are minors, Lady Beaumont and Lady Clifton of Leighton Bromswold. The first Baron Beaumont was the grandson of John de Brienne, who held the glorious dignity of King of Jerusalem. After being in abeyance for more than 300 years the barony fell in 1840 to a Yorkshire Roman Catholic gentleman, Miles Thomas Stapleton of Carlton. His son and successor married a daughter of the late Sir Charles Templest and when he died, fourteen years ago, he left a little girl, who was scarcely more than a year old. Less than three weeks later another girl was born. The barony was called out of abeyance in favor of the elder child before she was two years old.

But Lady Clifton is the baby among peeresses in their own right. She was born at the beginning of 1900, and before she was twelve months old her father's death made her a peeress. The heir presumptive is her uncle, Lord Darnley.

On the death of the late Lord Lovelace, three years ago, his only child the great-granddaughter of Byron, became Baroness Wentworth in her own right. This barony has been held by baronesses more often than any other. First conferred on Sir Thomas Wentworth, Chamberlain to Edward VI. and a connection of the family of the same name settled at Wentworth Woodhouse, near Sheffield, and now represented by Lord Fitzwilliam, it passed in course of time to Henrietta, the only child of the fifth baron, when she was a child of ten.

Born during the Commonwealth, she fell a victim to the glances of the Duke of Monmouth, her rents, her jewels and her credit were lovingly given to forward his plots for usurping the throne. From Henrietta the barony passed to an aunt, who was succeeded by her granddaughter. After the lapse of more than a century it fell again to a baroness, who was none other than the widow of Byron.

Lady Cromartie is the only living countess in her own right. The peerage was first conferred on her grandmother, Anne, Duchess of Sutherland, mother of the Duke of Sutherland and Mistress of the Robes in the '70s. Her Grace was a descendant of the Mackenzies, the old Earl of Cromarties, and the inheritor of their estates. At her death she was succeeded, in accordance with the terms of the patent, by her second son. The late Lord Cromartie died when his elder daughter was fifteen, and she had to wait two years before she was confirmed in the title. She married Major Blunt-Mackenzie, and has a daughter and two sons, Viscount Tarbat, the heir, is five.

When William Amhurst Tyssen-Amhurst was raised to the peerage in the '90s, he had no sons but several daughters, all accomplished and all named Margaret after their mother. The eldest of these, who was married to Lord William Cecil of the Exeter family, was granted special remainder to the barony, and on her father's death a few months ago became Lady Amhurst of Hackney in her own right. She has four sons, but no daughters. The future succession is limited to heirs male.

Mistaken For Jim Corbett.

A story which is being told behind the scenes at the Lyceum theatre in London, Eng., just now is one concerning Mr. Eric Mayne, who plays Hildebrand in "The Proud Prince," and whose athletic figure shows to such advantage on the stage. Coming out of the stage-door after a matinee the other day, he ran into a couple of urchins. "That's him!" said one, excitedly. "That's the bloke what gets shrivelled up" (alluding, of course, to the manner in which Mr. Mayne is changed to a hideous-looking jester by the archangel). "Garn!" said the other urchin. "That ain't Mr. Mayne; that's Jim Corbett!"

SAVED HER FINGER.

Mrs. B. K. Beilwell, of 337 Frovener Ave., St. Boniface, Winnipeg, says:—"Some time ago my children took diphtheria, and while attending them the poison entered a small scratch on the second finger of my left hand. This became very sore and blood-poisoning soon set in. For months after the children were quite well I was suffering from a shockingly bad finger. The scratch was caused originally by a pin, and in itself, was not at all serious. The consequences, however, of neglecting this scratch, were very serious to me. When the blood-poisoning set in I tried poultices and a salve I had in the house. These, however, did not have the desired effect. Quite on the contrary the finger became more and more swollen and discolored. It then began to fester, and I had to call in a doctor. He lanced the finger to let out the pus, and you can imagine how painful the finger was! Despite his care, however, it again festered and the consequences, lints, and other preparations which the doctor gave me seemed absolutely unable to bring about any relief. The doctor thereupon advised me to go to the St. Boniface Hospital. I feared that if I went to the Hospital the finger would be amputated. We were told of a case similar to my own in which Zam-Buk had effected a cure when everything else had failed and the doctor had said that only amputation could save the person's hand."

"We, therefore, decided to give Zam-Buk a trial. A supply was procured, and we commenced the Zam-Buk treatment. It only needed a few days to show the wisdom of this step. The blood-poisoning and inflammation were reduced, the pain became less acute, and it was evident very shortly that the trouble was being reduced to less and still less area. We persevered with the Zam-Buk and in the end the festering sore was thoroughly cleaned, then healed. In under three weeks from first commencing with Zam-Buk, the finger was entirely well; and had we applied Zam-Buk in the first place, instead of trying ordinary preparations, no doubt I should have saved myself hours and hours of acute agony."

All mothers should note this case. Zam-Buk is a sure cure for blood-poisoning, festering, cuts, scratches from barbed wire, bruises, eczema, rashes, scabies, skin rheum, face sores, ulcers, piles, bad leg, various sores, and skin injuries and diseases. 50c a box, all druggists and stores or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Send stamp for pamphlet of free trial box. Refuse all imitations.

REPLY TO R. L. MATHEWS From the Trochu Times

When times are bad and many people find it difficult to obtain work we expect to hear something from our Socialist friends regarding the "tyranny of capitalism" and the "sufferings of the toilers." We look for small crowds of out-of-workers at the street corners listening in sublime ignorance to the expostulations of one more ignorant than themselves—we harken for the gingle of the coin. That is a very frequent, a very ordinary, and, I have no doubt, quite a pardonable state of things when times are bad.

But surely Mr Mathews and his following have embarked on an entirely new and utterly untenable course when they complain of an "epidemic of prosperity" because times are good and people are obtaining profitable employment? I am inclined to believe that Mr Mathews and his supporters belong to a class of people who are never satisfied. When trade is bad and work is scarce they complain, and when times are prosperous and the people are happy they complain.

It is a "dog in the manger" policy and one which does not, and never will, appeal to the intelligent Canadian farmer.

ALL WELCOME

We take the following from the Trochu Times that applies to all the paper we publish.

The Times is run for the benefit of the people of Trochu and the surrounding district. Send your items to the editor at Trochu or to me at Bowden—in the latter event mark "For Times" on copy. I want it distinctly understood at all times that the several papers printed and published by me have no "ties that bind" and I expect so long as I continue in the business to say what I blank please and the columns of the several newspapers I print are open for subscribers to say what they have in their systems, so long as it is within the postal regulations.

This week one of our subscribers writes us wanting to know "why certain business men did not run ads in the Times."

All the firms of Trochu have been invited to assist in way of ads, job work, etc. Nearly all are sports enough to want a paper and are helping support the Times. In every town you will find "boasters" and "knockers"—and you or I never saw the later class carry ads to any extent.

There is another class—we used to call them "pikers" or "cheap skates" in the states—the kind that want to get "free puffs" and aren't sports enough to assist to maintain their home paper but leave the burden to fall on the other business men. There are the "wise guys," the "knows it alls" the "cheap guys" who stand around and say: "I'd like to run that paper—I'd show him" when chances are that they would start to spell their name "Phool" instead of just plain "D. Fool."

There is another class of business men who believe in putting a big ad once in a while, and some who really feel that they cannot to carry an ad. Good fellows who do all they can to boost the town and paper. And it wont take the boys long to succeed. As soon as they feel they can afford it you will see them carry ads with big box car letters. To this class I gladly say: "Boys, you're welcome to space in my papers free, until such time as business warrants paying for it—send them in at once." To the "cheap guys" and "knockers" items concerning them and their business cannot get into the columns of my papers if I know it—obituaries excepted which we are glad to get.

So if our readers will bear these little things in mind and be sure to keep them in mind—the only man who is helping you and yours is the man who is shouting for your town and paper—he is the one who should have your support and patronage.

The "cheap guy" with his everlasting "knocking" is the one who is hurting the sale of your farm produce, land values, town property, etc. etc. and the easiest way to get rid of such fungus in a town is not to patronize them. The next time you hear some one make a "hollar" about their home paper ten to one he is one of the "pikers" referred to above. And chances are more than ten to one that if we told half we really knew about them they would want to sneak out of town. The Press is like the Pulpit—it doesn't print all it knows. The fact that you may be "sore" on the editor or preacher should not carry that you ought to be "sore" at the readers of the paper or the preacher's congregation. And the chances are a million to one neither care a tinker's d— whether you ever get over it.

Therefore, be it resolved in your mind, that hereafter you will only patronized the man who helps you and your interests. And when you have anything to say, let me hear from you.

—F. L. Harris, Manager
Bowden, Alta.

Had Eczema on Legs For Twenty Years

Thinks No One Could Have it Worse
—Was Cured by DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

There are plenty of more fatal diseases than Eczema, but not many which cause more downright suffering. The tendency of eczema to spread over the body is annoying and discouraging, and the itching—the almost constant and persistent itching—nearly drives a person crazy. You can scarcely wonder that people are enthusiastic over Dr. Chase's Ointment, when it brings them prompt relief and actually cures itching, tormenting eczema. And if you could read a few hundreds of the letters we receive from time to time you would not be long in deciding what treatment to apply for eczema, salt rheum and similar skin diseases.

Mr. Fred W. Clark, Petworth, Addington Co., Ont., writes: "My mother had eczema in both legs for about 20 years. She doctored for a long time and tried everything for it, but got no relief until a friend advised her to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, which she got. "She found that Dr. Chase's Ointment gave her great relief, so she got some more and continued this treatment faithfully, until now she is entirely cured of eczema. I don't think any one could have this disease worse than she did, and shall not attempt to describe her suffering. She recommends Dr. Chase's Ointment to any one suffering from eczema."

It is such cures as this that has made Dr. Chase's Ointment the "standard ointment" the world over. Do not be satisfied with the "just as good" kind. It will only disappoint. If you insist on getting what you ask for you will be better pleased afterwards and your intelligence will not be insulted next time.

LA GRIPPE

Arrested, and Consumption Cured

Mr. G. D. Colwell, of Walkerville, Ont., was stricken down with La Grippe in 1906 and it left him in a very bad condition. He says: "I was all run down and bordering on Consumption. I could not sleep at night, had awful sweats, and coughed nearly the whole time. This is how I was when I began to take Psychine, in a low nervous state; but from the first bottle I began to improve. It did marvels for me and brought me back to health in no time, making a new man of me. It fortifies the body against the attacks of La Grippe and is a sure preventive. I always take Psychine if I feel a cold coming on and it puts me right in no time."

THE MIDDLE-AGED MAN.

Something Said to Him by the Dentist
Sets Him Thinking.

"My dentist tells me," said the middle-aged man, "that my teeth will last as long as I do, and when he said that to me I was at first pleased, because then it seemed to mean simply that I still had pretty good teeth, good for a long time yet, and I thought that some day I would say to him, sort of half jokingly:—
"Doctor, you tell me my teeth will last as long as I will. About how long do you think my teeth will last?"
"In that way, you see, by indirection I am going to get a line on how much longer he thought I was likely to live, and as I thought that over I smiled to myself, thinking that was a pretty bright idea. But do you know that when I came to think it over again I didn't ask him finally. I didn't."

"Because I think he knows. I have been going to him now for years, and he knows my teeth through and through. He knows by them how old I am, and he knows their rate of wear exactly and how much longer they will last, and he could tell me how much longer I will last. But I haven't asked him because I don't want to know. I don't want to know at all."

"As a matter of fact, I think that when we come to my time of life we don't much fancy dwelling on that, though there are times when it seems to intrude itself, when we realize that the years ahead of us are not so many as—well, as they were some years ago, when life seemed to us interminable. Any actuary could tell us what our expectation of life may be at the present moment."

"We expect, of course, that we are going to live longer, to be the exception, but even if we should so prove we can count the years still coming to us without using many figures. We are getting to where we can see the end if we look that way, and I can't say that I have any fear of it, but I certainly don't find any pleasure in contemplating it. I'd rather stay."

"So I haven't asked the dentist because I don't want to know. The thought of it does drift in on me once in awhile, but when it does I shunt it off and get busy and keep plugging and take a cheerful view."

"I'm glad my teeth are good anyhow."

Women Poets of France.

Recent statistics from France show that there are 300 poetesses in that country, as well as 30 women fashion writers and 1,500 women novelists. There are also 300 feminine writers on educational matters, while sixty women are enrolled on the list of the Society of Dramatic Authors. A woman directs Les Nouvelles, a serious daily paper published in Paris.

In England women printers are doing excellent work. The suffragettes have all their circulars, pamphlets, official organs and cards printed by a firm of women who run their business on the co-operative scheme and are making money and a reputation for creditable results at moderate prices. A woman's club run entirely by women is one of the most successful clubs in London. It has invested its surplus money in good paying stock and can boast of having a sounder financial basis than nine-tenths of the London clubs. It is called the Pioneer and numbers among its members chiefly woman journalists, authors and artists.

Dancing by Halves.

"At a dance the other night I met the most popular girl I ever saw," said a Harlem bachelor. "I asked her to dance. She said she would like to, but she had only half a dance left. If I was willing to take that, all right."

"It was a new experience to share one dance with a rival, but I agreed to her terms. I thought up to the last minute that she was fooling, but when my part of the waltz was done—she put me down for the first half—she glided away from me and sailed off in the arms of the other chap, who had been standing around awaiting his opportunity."

"That is what I call popularity raised to its very highest power."

What Makes Electricity?

Lots of other people would like to know what makes electricity, but nobody does know it. We know a good many things about electricity, just as we know a good many things about life. But we do not know what makes the difference between a dead tree and a live tree, although we know the difference perfectly. Just so we know it is dangerous to touch what we call a "live wire," because electricity is passing through it, but we do not know what electricity is. We know how to make electricity do wonderful things for us, but we do not know what "makes electricity."

Shawl of Cat's Hair.

A wonderful shawl is possessed by the Duchess of Northumberland. It once belonged to Charles X. of France, and was made entirely from the fur of Persian cats. Although the shawl is eight feet square, it is of such fine texture that it can be compressed into an ordinary coffee cup.

Mrs. Joseph Lacelle, 124 Bronson St., Ottawa, East, Ontario, Canada, writes: "I suffered with backache and headache for over nine months and nothing relieved me until I took Peruna. Alberta man tells how his troubles vanished when he used the old reliable Kidney Remedy.

Seena, Alta. (Special).—"I can now do all my work without pain and with pleasure." Those are the words of Postmaster Andrew B. Nelson of this place. As all the postmaster's friends know, he has been troubled with Kidney Disease for several years past, and has been doing everything in his power to find a cure for it. He has found the cure. It is Dodd's Kidney Pills. Yes, I tried all kinds of medicines for my kidney trouble," the postmaster joyfully states. "None of them seemed to do me any good till I commenced to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Two boxes of them cured me completely. I highly recommend them to all sufferers from Kidney Disease. I would not be without them."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure all diseases of the kidneys, from Backache to Bright's Disease. They also cure all diseases caused by disordered kidneys failing to strain the impurities out of the blood. That's why they cure Dropsy, Rheumatism, and Heart Disease. If you haven't tried them yourself ask your neighbors about them.

It is a well known fact that cotton goods have gone up 10 to 25 per cent. Still we are selling them at last years prices and many lines below. The reason we can do this is easy. Our spring orders were placed early last fall before the rise took place and you can now enjoy the benefit, -10c per yd. up to 25c
